Where Did the Dinosaurs Come From?

- Genesis 1:21, God created the great sea monsters and every living creature that moves, with which the waters swarmed after their kind, and every winged bird after its kind; and God saw that it was good.
- Genesis 1:25, God made the beasts of the earth after their kind, and the cattle after their kind, and everything that creeps on the ground after its kind; and God saw that it was good.
- Genesis 1:30, and to every beast of the earth and to every bird of the sky and to everything that moves on the earth which has life, I have given every green plant for food"; and it was so.
- Job 40:15-18, Behold now, Behemoth, which I made as well as you; he eats grass like an ox. Behold now, his strength in his loins and his power in the muscles of his belly. He bends his tail like a cedar; the sinews of his thighs are knit together. His bones are tubes of bronze; his limbs are like bars of iron.
- Job 41:1-8, Can you draw out Leviathan with a fishhook? Or press down his tongue with a cord? Can you put a rope in his nose or pierce his jaw with a hook? Will he make many supplications to you, or will he speak to you soft words? Will he make a covenant with you? Will you take him for a servant forever? Will you play with him as with a bird, or will you bind him for your maidens? Will the traders bargain over him? Will they divide him among the merchants? Can you fill his skin with harpoons, or his head with fishing spears? Lay your hand on him; remember the battle; you will not do it again!

What Happened to the Dinosaurs?

Possibly those who could not survive in water were killed by the Genesis Flood. Some may have been taken on the ark, but after the Flood, the climate changed, and the immense vegetation they required was not available, so most did not survive. Some, like the Behemoth and the Leviathan, were just very large non-dinosaur animals which survived the Flood. We do not know if the Behemoth could survive in water (more likely, as with most animals, young ones were taken on the ark). The Leviathan could obviously survive in water, and such creatures are recorded as existing in many ancient cultures. Both creatures survived at least until the time of Job (around 2,000 B.C.).
